

AUSTRALIAN COMMISSION ON SAFETY AND QUALITY IN HEALTH CARE

National Safety and Quality Primary Health Care Standards

Online Consultation (May to July 2019)

The Australian Commission on Safety and Quality in Health Care (the Commission) is consulting on National Safety and Quality Primary Health Care Standards and invites the primary health care sector to participate.

Anyone involved in the delivery of primary health care services including, but not limited to primary health care providers and practitioners, policy makers and relevant health service organisations are welcome to attend.

Your input is essential to developing standards that are of value to your sector, focus on safety and quality outcomes and are patient-centred.

Videoconferencing workshops

Workshops will be informal and interactive. Participants will be asked to discuss the safety and quality issues for patients in primary health care, and what needs to be in place to provide safe and high-quality care.

Date	Time
Monday, 29 July	12:00pm to 2:00pm AEST
Tuesday, 30 July	12:00pm to 2:00pm AEST
Wednesday, 31 July	6:00pm to 8:00pm AEST

Click here to take you to the registration page for all three workshops

Participation in a videoconferencing workshop requires access to a computer, tablet or smartphone with a camera and microphone. Teleconference is also available in these workshops. You will be sent details on how to join the videoconference closer to the date.

Online survey

If you are unavailable to attend one of the consultation workshops but wish to be part of the consultation process, please complete the appropriate survey:

- Survey for primary health care services
- Survey for consumers

The survey covers topics that are being explored during the workshops.

Contact us

Please contact Hanna Pak on 02 9126 3635 or hanna.pak@safetyandquality.gov.au and visit the Commission's website for more information about the National Safety and Quality Primary Health Care Standards.